Vocal Hygiene Strategies

General Strategies for Healthy Voice Use	Classroom discussion of good vocal habits. Teacher models good vocal habits, such as close proximity to listener. Reduce background noise in classroom.
Problem	Strategy
Yells, screams or cheers loudly	Classroom discussion of good vocal habits. Have student clap, gesture or make hand signals instead of yelling. Use visual aids/poster to remind student to use appropriate voice. Teacher provides cues to remind student to use appropriate voice.
Clears throat and coughs frequently	Have student try to swallow or take sips of cold water instead. Provide hard candy to keep throat moistened.
Talks loudly Trying to talk over noise such as loud music, TV, and outside noises can strain your voice.	Try to reduce the background noise. Have student get close and face the listener when talking in loud places. Instruct student to use "inside voice".
Makes strange or unusual sounds with voice while playing, such as loud airplanes, trucks, and animal sounds	Encourage student to make non-vocal sounds instead.
Whispers too much. Whispering causes you to push harder, and strain you vocal folds.	Have student use a quiet talking voice instead.
Talks a lot when he/she has a cold, is ill or overtired.	Have student drink plenty of fluids, use a quiet voice, and take voice breaks/vocal rest. Avoid caffeinated drinks.

Adapted from www.capitalhealth.ca. Retrieved 6-23-07